CV

- A SELECTION OF WORK -

HELLO

I find CV's are a bit odd. How big and amazing am I supposed to make myself look yet not overselling myself on paper to lure you into considering me for a project. To an extent, this one is no different and the following pages give you enough of an idea of the scope of projects I have had a lot of fun (and stress at times) being involved with. Fortunately they turned out pretty good for the directors, production companies, film crews, agencies, clients and even the BG extras.

Now let's be honest, 1st AD roles can be considered intense and not for everyone. Like most AD's, I didn't plan to end up here and hadn't projected this to my Kindergarten schoolteacher. For me, it kind of just happened when I was told by a Production Manager one day as I was trying to look busy as a green PA, that you're going to be a 2nd AD to the 1st on an upcoming project. I was...what's an AD again? All these acronyms PA, PM, AC, VTR, DIT, AD, LX were a mind field. AI wasn't around then for me to ask it what an AD was and how to falsely pretend to be one by following all the suggestions. I pulled out the printed callsheet, before we went green and studied the whole thing from cover to cover. What I discovered from that callsheet were the details...I loved the details.

Fast forward countless hours on films sets to now and I still love the details. Being an AD is all about the details of a shoot as a whole. I have learnt that the PM from way back towed me into the job I was meant to be doing.

Will I look at this copy in the future and cringe...probably, but for now I'm feeling screw it, just write what comes out and see if it helps you get some work, cause that's what CV's are for right?

If not bored yet, turn the pages for the details...

José
